Good Morning, Patriots!

Requiem

Barack Obama's Tragic Misery Tour will finally quit the national stage and relocate to the murder capital of the U.S., Chicago, where Obama learned his coercion skills, twisting arms and making threats as a climbing community organizer.

He will wash his hands of any responsibility for the eight year nightmare of destruction; much of which we have yet to realize. No remorse is shown for the $873.6 billion in regulations to strangle U.S. businesses into compliance; $344 billion under the rogue EPA alone.

The Middle East is in chaos, Iran is putting finishing touches on its growing nuclear arms program (with more uranium from the Obama Regime), and Israel faces new threats from the UN; all promoted by Barack Obama.

He's laid waste to our productivity, stifled personal initiative, and driven wedges of division throughout the nation, separating us by race, gender, age, income and faith. As a parting gift to Raoul Castro, he suddenly canceled the decades-old "wet foot, dry foot" program that granted Cuban refugees safety in the U.S. – stranding thousands of Cubans fleeing tyranny.

The repulsive Obama Regime may be winding down, but scars from the nightmare it created will last for several decades.

Refusal to 'face the music' and admit defeat

Pathetic

According to Dave Wasserman at the Cook Political Report, of 227 million eligible voters in the United States, Hillary Clinton gathered 28.8% of the votes cast and Donald Trump captured 27.7%. Those who voted for other candidates amounted to 3.2%. Sadly for our republic, 40.3% of those eligible didn't bother to show up.

There are 3,141 counties in the United States; Donald Trump won 3,084 of them and Hillary Clinton won 57.

In New York State alone there are 62 counties; Donald Trump won 46 of them and Hillary Clinton won 16. She won the popular vote in that state by 1.6 million votes. The five counties that encompass New York City (Bronx, Brooklyn, Manhattan, Richmond, and Queens) gave Clinton well over 2 million more votes than Trump. Clinton won four of these counties; Trump only won Richmond. These five counties alone accounted for Hillary Clinton winning the popular vote of the entire country. These five counties comprise 319 square miles. The entire United States is comprised of 3,797,000 square miles.

If you have a country that covers almost four million square miles of geography, it would be laughable to even suggest that the vote of those who inhabit a mere 319 square miles should dictate the outcome of a national election. Large, densely populated Democrat enclaves (New York City, Chicago, Los Angeles, etc.) don't, and shouldn't, speak for the remainder of our country (most of it). This is why our Framers settled on the election system they did.

But this is the argument the Democrat Party makes: they should have won exactly because they own big cities through welfare and other entitlements. The law and the Electoral College don't really matter.

Progressives will never be introspective, looking inside themselves to ascertain what they did wrong (as in, "How did we lose the election?").

Since they believe they are always correct, their loss must have been because their opposition committed fraud, or the voters who didn't choose them failed to understand their positions, the progressive "message." How many times have you heard this?

Condescension and arrogance, their superiority complex, is a character trait; it's part of who they are – and frustrating to us.

They believe they are always right and those who oppose them are always wrong, hence there's really no need for discussion or debate. This core belief leads them to attack the character and integrity of their opponents and dismiss their positions.

Reality is never considered because their views are based entirely on their narrative; their ideology only allows for what is supposed to be, not as things really exist. Alternatives are considered only as obstacles to be overcome by better messaging. Their narrative will not change; neither will their failed, fraudulent policies. Everything they observe is treated as a social construct and, hence, artificial.

The conservative Tea Party movement started the "Great Awakening" and this Trump-driven populist push to remove Obamunism and the Clinton Cartel is Stage II. Ideas can penetrate the fog, the progressive propaganda, and restoration will advance IF the status quo GOP leadership doesn't sabotage Trump's momentum.

Reality has to be reestablished inside the Beltway and the fraudulent policies of the progressives defeated, not simply compromised. A thorough housecleaning is necessary throughout the massive bureaucracy.

Obama's failed "legacy" must be confronted, head-on. And pathetic Democrats must admit reality – and defeat.

We Be People

The January 20 inauguration of Donald Trump as 45th President of the United States will be anything but "text book." Democrat Party operatives have done their best to make the transition of presidential power as chaotic as possible. And they don't mean prying the "Ts" off every computer keyboard in the White House before Obama leaves.

Democrats and their leftist support minions have "laid the groundwork for a relentless four-year assault" on Donald Trump's presidency, "vowing to disrupt and discredit his administration" before he takes the Oval Office, according to Valerie Richardson in The Washington Times.

Other sources acknowledge that the Trump administration can expect a variety of leftist attacks every day he's in office. The assaults on his agenda will be continuous, including efforts from state-run media.

BuzzFeed has already released a bogus "Trump dossier" passed around last August but kept under wraps until now. Obama's politicized intelligence heads have even surfaced the 35 pages of unsubstantiated tripe, despite the discovery that the firm behind the "Trump dossier" (Fusion GPS) had done Planned Parenthood propaganda.

The Left is desperate to pull Trump down as illegitimate; DNC operatives and Clinton staffers warn of impeachment and actress Rosie O'Donnell calls for "martial law."

Hard-left groups have planned demonstrations in DC to disrupt the Presidential Inauguration on January 20; the ACLU, Michael Moore, and various radical groups are busily promoting disturbance.

"DisruptJ20," a group of self-proclaimed anarchists, plans to "paralyze DC" using sit-ins, protests and blockades to bring the inauguration ceremonies to a halt. The group's website states it plans a "series of massive direct actions that will shut down the inauguration ceremonies and any related celebrations – the Inaugural parade, the Inaugural balls, you name it." It also claims it intends "to paralyze the city itself, using blockades and marches to stop traffic and even public transit."

Buckle-up... this Inauguration Day will likely expose Leftists as "illegitimate."

Senate Democrat committee members exposed

Character assassins

Perhaps Rush Limbaugh voiced it best last week, at least the most succinct I've heard: "Democrats haven't been this mad since Lincoln freed the slaves."

Harsh, yes; truth can sometimes be brutal, particularly when a political party loses its power and control. Its existence has been built on lies and fear and, long ago, the Democrat Party abandoned any semblance of belief in fact over fiction, deciding to just concentrate on fear. When unable to defend their position on any issue, they simply destroy their opponent's integrity by fear and innuendo. But for those Democrat Senate committee members throwing "racism" charges at Trump's cabinet nominees, a refresher in American History is in order.

The Thirteenth Amendment to the U.S. Constitution abolished slavery (ratified December 6, 1865), completing what President Abraham Lincoln began with his Emancipation Proclamation in 1863. Republican Party support was 100% for the amendment; Democrat Party, only 23%.

The Fourteenth Amendment guaranteed citizenship to the slaves set free by the Thirteenth and was ratified by the states on July 9, 1868. Republican Party support was 94%; Democrat Party, 0%.

Voting rights were guaranteed by the Fifteenth Amendment (ratified on February 3, 1870) to all those awarded citizenship by the Fourteenth and granted freedom by the Thirteenth. Again, Republican support was 100%; Democrat support was 0%.

When it came to "human rights," the members of this leftist party were absent. In the push for civil rights during the 1960s, the Republicans pulled the Democrats along the road to equality, despite their objections. Today, Democrats take credit for the achievements of others through revisionist history; their "base" buys the propaganda.

The unread Affordable Care Act (Obamacare) passed on March 23, 2010 with no support from Republicans (0%) and 86% support from Democrats. Black Americans, along with all others, now pay more for less under Obamacare's restricted access, exorbitant costs and illegal mandates.

Employment opportunities for black Americans have been hit hardest by the Democrats' insistence on open borders and unrestricted illegal immigration.

Democrat rallies were held around the nation last week, however, with more desperate attempts to destroy Trump's legitimacy as president-elect. As usual, the fear campaign featured voting rights, health care, and immigration as targets planned for destruction by Trump's "evil Republicans." Senators Schumer and Gillibrand (both D-NY) crowed from the podium about saving the very things they have done their best to corrupt and destroy, over and over.

As Senate confirmation hearings began for Donald Trump's attorney general nominee Senator Jeff Sessions on January 10, the Democrats staged a demonstration outside his Capitol Hill office to label him a racist. NAACP members who refused to leave were ushered out by law enforcement.

Inside the Senate committee chamber where his hearing was held, protestors invited by Democrats disrupted the questioning. Leftists dressed as KKK members, sporting hastily-cut white sheets and waving large, hand-lettered foam hands, did their best to ironically paint Senator Sessions as a 1920s era Democrat terrorist. Code Pink militants and Black Lives Matter radicals added what they could to the pathetic attempt by Democrat committee members to cast Sessions as a racist.

Accusations of "racism" by those who have fostered it since the 1860s will continue if they are not exposed. On Martin Luther King Jr's birthday, Congressmen like John Lewis (D-GA) of the "black caucus" should reexamine the "content of their character." King would demand it and urge the black Democrats to look inside themselves.

The American people have had enough character assassination and faux racism attacks. Expose the denizens of the Swamp.

Enough!
