

Sanctuary county

A church daycare teacher in Indianapolis, Jessica Parks, was the victim of a hit-and-run by an illegal alien woman. The illegal hit Jessica as she walked with enough force to throw Jessica into the air and break her leg.

The illegal alien sped off in her vehicle but was apprehended later and ICE was notified.

A detainer request was issued by ICE, but Marion County, Indiana released the illegal alien driver, despite the ICE request.

Ricardo Wong of the Chicago ICE office stated in disgust, "Marion County brazenly ignored an immigration detainer and released a Mexican woman from its jail without first notifying U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE)."

Jessica Parks survived but the illegal alien is gone. Has Marion County become the newest sanctuary county in Indiana?

Ignoring the obvious

Lou Dobbs of the Fox Business Network raised a good question: "Why do the former intelligence officials of the Obama administration still have their security clearances?"

Shouldn't these have been forfeited within 30 days of Trump's inaugural, at the latest?

Obviously, it needs to get done... as soon as possible. As we see, the danger still exists.

Monday Morning Newswire

Non-partisan conservative commentary published by Hoosier Patriots, 8329 Carolwood Court, Evansville, IN 47715-4595, each Monday morning and sent by e-mail to those who subscribe. ©2018 - All Rights Reserved.

HOOSIER PATRIOTS

Jim Bratten

Subscribe through e-mail at:
hpnw.jimb@gmail.com

The Deep State's 'investigation' grinds on...

One year later

Since Special Counsel Robert Mueller's appointment and launch of his investigation of Donald Trump last May, what has been accomplished?

We have learned that Hillary Clinton and the Democrat National Committee (DNC) paid the Russians for a phony dossier, through the ruse of "opposition research," violating campaign finance laws.

The CIA and the FBI participated in the plot to derail a presidential campaign and, following that failure, a conspiracy to depose a sitting president.

Charges brought against Paul Manafort and others by the DOJ have nothing to do with the Trump presidential campaign.

CIA Director John Brennan and Director of National Intelligence (DNI) James Clapper both lied under oath before congressional committees, as did FBI Director James Comey.

We know Hillary Clinton was exonerated of crimes relating to her massive email scandal and its subsequent cover-up so she could seek the presidency. Then it was time for the plan that would guarantee Trump would never sit as president: Plan B.

Top echelons of our intelligence agencies targeted the Trump campaign for political reasons, to cover-up past illegal activities of the planned presidential winner, Hillary Clinton, before and after she served as secretary of state.

There was a substantial effort to frame the current president, by the former president, his administration and intelligence agencies, through surveillance and infiltration of the current president's campaign with agents placed by the Obama FBI, for crimes unspecified.

From its beginning in May, 2017 through September, 2017 $3.2 million in taxpayer money had been spent (in less than five months); over 100 people have been interviewed; 15 search warrants were issued; and over one million documents have been handled. But no one has been charged with "collusion," treason, or espionage.

One year later, there is no evidence tying Trump or anyone on his campaign staff to anything involving criminal activity with the Russians to subvert an election. We have learned that President Donald Trump and his associates committed no crimes.

In contrast, there is ample evidence of criminal activity by the Obama administration, known to some as the "Obama Regime" due to its corrupt, authoritarian character. We have learned that crimes were committed by Obama's FBI, CIA, and DOJ; by James Clapper, John Brennan, James Comey, and others under President Obama.

Obama's FBI placed at least one spy (informant) inside the Donald Trump presidential campaign, for no justifiable reason. His politicized FBI conducted an investigation without any evidence of a crime, calling it a "counterintelligence investigation." It issued secret subpoenas and used an unverified "dossier" to obtain FISA warrants through fraudulent means. This conspiracy to frame the Trump campaign and his administration continues by Obama holdovers within the FBI and DOJ: the "resistance."

These things we know: the Obama administration trampled the rule of law and debased the U.S. Constitution, and the Deep State-Mueller investigation keeps the Trump administration tied in knots.

Congressman Todd Rokita (R-IN) has proposed a resolution to end the Mueller probe unless Mueller can provide evidence of collusion within thirty days. But Rokita is on the House Budget Committee; the chance his resolution advances is nil, as long as Paul Ryan and the establishment Republican leadership are still around.

We Be People

The set-up, 'Crossfire Hurricane,' exposed

Entrapment

The Russian Ruse

The plan was: Russians are behind "election tampering" with Donald Trump, even though then-President Obama tossed off Russian meddling as "impossible."

When he occupied the Oval Office Barack Obama could not have cared less about Russia. He ignored Crimea and Ukraine, was backing the U.S. out of Eastern Europe and withdrawing from the Middle East, handing that neighborhood to Iran. But the Russians could be counted on for an election fraud plot with Trump.

As related in the book Russian Roulette, by Michael Isikoff and David Corn, the Obama White House response to concerns of "Russian meddling" in the 2016 presidential election was a collective yawn.

"Daniel and his team in the White House cyber response group were given strict orders: 'Stand down.' She told Daniel to 'knock it off,' he recalled."

In the midst of continuous Russian hacks on our systems, in the middle of a national election, she, Susan Rice, national security advisor to President Barack Obama, told her security team to "stand down" and stop developing options to thwart Russian cyber incursions. They figured any incursions would likely favor Hillary, the Uranium One deal still fresh in their wallets.

Their relationship with Russia and, formerly, their affinity for the Soviet Union, was in the progressive bloodstream – in their leftist DNA. American Democrats had worked with the Russians before.

In May, 1983 Senator Ted Kennedy (D-MA) reached out to the KGB and Soviet Premier Yuri Andropov. An offer, a "confidential contact," was made in reference to the 1984 presidential elections. Kennedy blamed the sour relations with the Soviets on Ronald Reagan. He assured the Soviets he would do all he could to "counter the policies of Ronald Reagan" by working to defeat Reagan in the 1984 presidential election. Kennedy promised the Soviets Democrats would do all they could to stop Reagan's aggressive, anti-Soviet policies.

So Democrats aren't strangers to the Russians. They've "been there" before...

Statements made last year by President Donald Trump were correct: his campaign was spied upon and surveilled, externally and, now we know, internally.

Three weeks after Hillary Clinton was exonerated by James Comey for her illegal email server crimes, operation "Crossfire Hurricane" was launched by the FBI.

At least one informant (spy) was placed inside the Trump campaign. That FBI plant gave false information to several contacts inside the campaign, one an adviser named George Papadopoulos. The story the FBI mole told Papadopoulos was that the Russians possessed thousands of Hillary Clinton emails. It was entirely bogus.

The New York Times reported on May 16 that, "Days after they closed their investigation into Hillary Clinton's use of a private email server, [FBI] agents began scrutinizing the campaign of her Republican rival... They said that anything the FBI did publicly would only give fodder to Mr. Trump's claims on the campaign trail that the election was rigged... Mr. Strzok countered that even if Mr. Trump's chances of victory were low – like dying before 40 – the stakes were too high to justify inaction." So the chance that Trump could win the election had to be considered and a plan had to be put in place to stop him: "Plan B," as noted in the texts between Peter Strzok and his paramour, FBI attorney Lisa Page.

"The FBI obtained phone records and other documents using national security letters – a secret type of subpoena – officials said. And at least one government informant met several times with Mr. Page and Mr. Papadopoulos, current and former officials said." (National security letters are used to circumvent the need for warrants from the FISA court, the FISC.)

The Times continued, "...Top Australian officials broke with diplomatic protocol and allowed the ambassador, Alexander Downer, to sit for an FBI interview to describe his meeting with the campaign adviser, George Papadopoulos." When Downer, a heavy financial supporter of the Clintons, met with Papadopoulos in a London pub, he asked Papadopoulos if he knew of the email possession by the Russians. Papadopoulos responded with the false information the FBI plant had told him. Downer brought the info back to the CIA and FBI. The fix was in; the Trump campaign believed the Russians had Hillary's emails.

On May 10, The Wall Street Journal reported that, "This would amount to spying, and it is hugely disconcerting. It would also be a major escalation from the electronic surveillance we already knew about, which was bad enough. Obama political appointees rampantly 'unmasked' Trump campaign officials to monitor their conversations, while the FBI played dirty with its surveillance warrant against Carter Page, failing to tell the Foreign Intelligence Surveillance Court that its supporting information came from the Hillary Clinton campaign. Now we find it may have also been rolling out human intelligence... to infiltrate the Trump campaign."

Former federal prosecutor and author Andrew McCarthy wrote last week in National Review, "The scandal is that the FBI, lacking the incriminating evidence needed to justify opening a criminal investigation of the Trump campaign, decided to open a counterintelligence campaign. With the blessing of the Obama White House, they took the powers that enable our government to spy on foreign adversaries and used them to spy on Americans. Americans who just happened to be their political adversaries."

This entrapment and surveillance is truly the stuff of Banana Republics. Spying was conducted on a political opponent's campaign by a sitting president, using that president's law enforcement agencies, to change the outcome of a national election.

Our federal government, not the Russians, attempted to influence a U.S. presidential election, using the powers of the State, an unprecedented abuse of power.

Enough!
READ THE CONSTITUTION